About Taylor

Taylor Eisenhauer guides clients through a variety of business and corporate transactions, including mergers, acquisitions, strategic divestitures and consolidations. She also advises on the formation and organization of business entities, corporate governance and structuring and private placement offerings, and compliance with data and privacy laws and regulations. Taylor's proficiency extends to writing and drafting various legal documents, including employment, licensing, software-as-a-service, shareholder, operating, contractor, lease and supply agreements, as well as employee handbooks and other policies.

In her practice, Taylor predominantly serves small-to-midsize private companies in the Southeast region. Her clients operate across a range of commercial industries, including software and technology, manufacturing, construction, engineering, healthcare, food services, automobile, oil and petroleum and real estate. She provides end-to-end solutions for entrepreneurs and business owners, from inception to exit strategy and everything in between.

Taylor provides value to her clients by being responsive, efficient and attentive to details while offering creative and practical solutions to
